ROYAL VICTORIA THEATRE.

MR. ELRINGTON, in thanking his kind friends for their patronage on Thursday night last, begs to explain the reason why he left the Theatre after the first act of the "Wreck of the Kœuba," which Mr. Lazar had not the candour to do, when he sent his messenger on the stage. The erudite Manager of the Victoria Theatre thought proper to say, in a most insulting manner before the whole Company, "Mr. Elrington, if you know no more of the part which you are taking than to spoil the piece, and make a fool of the Company, leave the stage, and don't return to it again. I will put a person on that will play your part."
Now, Mr. Elrington would ask his friends whether this attack was just or not? He can assure them, that instead of endeavouring to make a benefit, he employed himself in studying his part, from the wish of contributing to their amusement.
Mr. Elrington trusts that this explanation will exonerate him from any blame which the ex parte statement made on the stage, during his absence, may have attached to him.

6th MATCH.—For a gig and dingy, the gig not under 20 feet, and the race to be decided in twenty minutes. The man in the dingy must be caught by the bow man of the gig; and the dingy to have three minutes' start of the gig. Prize, £3 3s.
7th MATCH.—A purse for an aboriginal canoe race will be made up should there be three boats to start

RULES AND REGULATIONS.

1. That the different prizes shall be open to all boats in the colony, whether the property of persons entering them or not; and such persons shall be at liberty to select whatever crew they think fit.
2. That each boat shall wear a distinguishing flag at the bow, to be named at the entrance, and kept flying during the race.
3. Any boat wilfully fouling another during the race to be considered distanced, and not allowed to run for any other prize.
4. Persons entering boats, to draw lots for stations at the time of entering.
5. The signal gun to get ready and take stations will be fired ten minutes before the gun to start, or at the discretion of the Committee.
6. That all decisions of the Committee will be final, and without any appeal.
7. That any competitor in a race having cause of complaint against another, must make it known immediately on the termination of such race, otherwise it will not be entertained by the Committee.
8. That the Regatta shall commence at 10 o'clock, A.M., and shall continue at each subsequent hour, or as the Committee may think fit, when the different prizes will be contended for.
9. That the distance to be pulled in Matches 1, 2, 4, and 5, shall be from a warp at Howe's Punt down to a buoy moored at the east end of the reach, rounding it; then up the reach, rounding a buoy moored off the willow tree on Mr. Coffey's farm, and down again past the winning flag.
10. The distance in match 3 will be from Howe's Punt up the reach, round the buoy moored off the willow tree, back to the Punt.
11. That the entrances shall take place at Coffey's Hotel, Windsor, on Saturday next, the 26th December, between the hours of 7 and 9, P.M.
12. That the Committee confidently anticipate being able to add 25 per cent. to each of the prizes already advertised.
13. That any person entering boats for the 1st and 4th races, must be subscribers to the amount of 10s., and for the other prizes 5s.
14. That there shall be three entrances for each match, with the exception of the gig and dingy prize, or no race; and no person will be allowed to enter more than one boat for each race.

HEALTH FOR ALL!!!
BY

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.
Time should not be lost in taking this remedy for any of the following diseases:—

Ague	Inflammation
Asthma	Jaundice
Bilious complaints	Liver complaints
Blotches on the skin	Lumbago
Bowel complaints	Piles
Colics	Rheumatism
Constipation of bowels	Retention of urine
Consumption	Sore throats
Debility	Scrofula, or King's Evil
Dropsy	Stone and Gravel
Dysentery	Secondary symptoms
Erysipelas	Tic Douloureux
Female irregularities	Tumours
Fevers of all kinds	Ulcers
Fits	Venereal affections
Gout	Worms
Headaches	Weakness, from whatever cause, &c, &c.
Indigestion

Directions for use are given with every box.

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS and OINTMENT are so compounded as to act harmoniously one with the other: and, therefore, when the Ointment is used as an outward application, the Pills are the only internal medicine that should be taken.
These Pills are much used in warm climates, on account of their depurificatory qualities. They will, if taken before the immediate approach of disease, prevent its intrusion; while they speedily banish all ailments when the system is already under their influence.
The agreeable coolness and freedom from fever which these Pills will induce, are also great recommendations for their use in sultry climates. All heavy and drowsy sensations, which are the forerunners of direful diseases as apoplexy, paralytic strokes, &c., are effectually warded off by a few doses of this searching medicine; it produces sound and refreshing sleep, with a high flow of spirits, together with great vigour and lightness of body, as well a keen appetite. Sight and hearing, so indispensable to our enjoyment and happiness, are strengthened by the depuration of their respective organs, so that it may with truth be said
"HERE IS HEALTH FOR ALL."
It has been acknowledged to the Agent for the Australasian Colonies by parties connected with the Colonial Hospitals, that "the Pills are in many respects superior to any thing prescribed by the medical profession—that whereas the operation of all purgatives which they administer is to produce a reaction on the bowels when the immediate effect of the dose is gone off, Holloway's Pills, on the contrary, operate effectually, yet mildly, and leave the bowels quite regular."
The very long list of most eminent medical men who prescribe the Ointment in the English Hospitals has appeared in another advertisement.

HOCKIN'S PREPARATION OF SEIDLITZ, in one bottle, will keep in every situation. It is solid Salt of a natural spring, and like it, tasteless. The dose can be apportioned to suit all ages and constitutions; a full dose acts as a medicine; a smaller forms a refreshing and pleasant drink, consequently it is used by surgeons for making the saline draught. Hockin's Patent Preparation does not (like the articles called Seidlitz powders) become a liquid in damp places, but on the contrary it is rendered more firm, and contains the necessary salt to feed the blood and system. It is a valuable family medicine, being taken as freely by children as adults, and cannot disagree with or weaken the stomach in any climate. In bottles. CHAS. LAW INTELLIGENCE.

SUPREME COURT.—FRIDAY.

BANCO SITTINGS.

BEFORE their Honors the three JUDGES.

HAMPDEN v. CLARKE.

This was an action upon a money bond, and the declaration alleged that the defendant had agreed by such bond to pay, before the 1st of January, 1843, the sum of £400 and interest thereon. To this the defendant had, among other things, pleaded separate payment of £250 and £50 in accord and satisfaction of so much of the causes of action as had reference to these sums; both these payments were pleaded in bar, the larger sum having been paid, as was alleged, before the commencement of the suit, and the smaller sum after its commencement.

Both these pleas were demurred to upon various grounds, the principal of which was that pleas of payment in part formed no answer in an action upon a bond which became forfeit directly default was made.

Mr. FISHER appeared in support of the demurrer, and merely referred the Court to the case of Ashbee v. Pidduck, 1 Meeson and Welsby, 565, in which it was decided that, under the statute of Anne, no plea would be sufficient in an action upon a bond, except a plea of full performance of its conditions.

Mr. BROADHURST, who appeared to support the pleas, admitted the force of the authority quoted on the other side, but suggested that there was a substantial ground of demurrer to the declaration; and although, as no notice had been given, this objection could not be argued, it would be open to the Court to take it.

Mr. Justice DICKINSON having examined the declaration, remarked, that the ground of objection, he presumed, was that a condition of the bond being the payment of the sum on a certain day, "if demanded," there was no allegation of a demand.

Mr. BROADHURST assented, and after a brief discussion upon this point the Court agreed to consider it, when the counsel on either side were requested to send in any cases which they might find applicable to the point, to Mr. Justice Dickinson.

TULIP v. KING.

Mr. MICHIE enquired when it was probable that judgement would be formally delivered in this case, remarking, that although the decision of the Court had been announced, much interest was still felt in the judgment; for the defendant and others who were similarly circumstanced were anxious to see whether, in the opinion of the Court, they possessed a remedy by action of covenant.

The CHIEF JUSTICE said, that the Judges had looked with great care through all the cases bearing upon the points involved, and he had intended to prepare a written judgment; but as the decision of the Court had been announced and acted upon, there appeared to be no immediate necessity for doing this, and the immense pressure of other business had not only prevented him from resuming his task, but had in a great measure driven the case out of his mind.

Mr. DARVALL remarked, that as the Court had pronounced its decision, there could be no necessity for imposing upon their Honors the task of preparing a long written judgment, in order that the other side might be afforded the chance of bringing another action.

Mr. JUSTICE DICKINSON said, that his present recollection as to the reasons which induced the Court to arrive at its decision was, that having looked through all the cases, they could find no authority which would warrant the raising of an implied contract to supply a blunder or omission in a deed. He agreed, however, that it would be in all cases satisfactory to state the reasons which influenced the Judges in coming to their decision, and if the state of business during the ensuing vacation would allow it, he would promise to prepare the required judgment.

TOOGOOD v. GRENFELL.

This was an action on promises, in which the plaintiff, acting upon the Absent Defendant's Act, had sued the defendant, as one of the members of a firm carrying on business as Grenfell and Co., for and on account of such firm. The declaration had been demurred to by the defendant on various grounds.

The MICHIE supported the demurrer, and Mr. DARVALL supported the declaration.

The Act referred to gave a power of sueing one or more member or members of a firm, in the name of the firm itself, when the remaining members were unknown; thus leaving the liabilities of the latter to be afterwards fixed by scire facias. The question raised by the demurrer was, whether the plaintiff ought or ought not to have alleged in the face of his declaration that there were other members of the firm whose names were unknown to him. On the one hand, it was contended that this was a condition precedent, which plaintiffs were bound to comply with, before they could take advantage of the extraordinary remedy afforded them by the Act against absent defendants. On the other hand, it was argued that such a condition would be most inconvenient to every plaintiff, who would thus be unable to sue under this Act, unless he was in a position to show that there were really other members of the firm with whose names he was unacquainted.

Their HONORS were of opinion that the demurrer in this case must be sustained. The action was a statutory one, being brought under the provision of an Act which empowered a plaintiff to proceed against the known representative or agent of a firm when the individual members of such firm were unknown; but in order to bring himself within the statutory provisions, it was a condition precedent that the remaining members of the firm must be really unknown, and this fact should therefore be alleged in the declaration It would be open to the defendant to plead in abatement that the plaintiff knew who were the other members of the firm; but it would lay upon him to prove this issue. Under the circumstances leave would be given to the plaintiff to amend upon the usual terms.

CARTER v. EALES.

This was an action of debt, tried at Maitland before His Honor Mr. Justice Therry, in which a verdict had been found for the plaintiff—damages, 1s; debt, £58 18s. 8d, and a new trial was moved for upon various grounds.

Mr MICHIE supported the motion, and Mr. BROADHURST appeared to support the verdict.

The subject matter of the action was, the work and labour of the plaintiff at the defendant's sheep station, and the suit was brought upon certain orders which the former had received from Mr. Last, the defendant's superintendent; but it appeared that the plaintiff had taken from Mr. Eales a cheque for £5, as "for the balance of his wages," and this cheque was tendered in evidence on the part of the defendant as amounting to a receipt in full of all demands. The learned Judge left it to the Jury at the trial to determine whether this cheque was taken as a payment in full or not, telling them that the receipt was only prima facie evidence of such payment, and would be rebutted by the production of the orders, unless these orders had been paid.

The principal grounds of the present motion were first, that the question had not been properly laid before the Jury, as the latter ought to have been told that the acceptance of the cheque was proof of a final settlement, unless there was proof of actual fraud and deceit on the part of the defendant; and, secondly, that the verdict was against evidence.

Their HONORS, without calling upon Mr. Broadhurst, decided that the verdict must be sustained. The Jury had been very properly told that a receipt was only prima facie evidence of payment, and as there was evidence on both sides, the case was one which it was quite within their province to determine.

O'NEIL v. EALES.

This was a similar action to the foregoing, tried before Mr. Justice Therry, and a new trial had been moved for upon the ground of the alleged improper rejection of evidence by the learned Judge; but as it appeared that the notice had been drawn under a mis-impression as to His Honor's ruling, the case was not argued.

HILLAS v. HUNT.

This was an action of trespass, tried before the Chief Justice, at Berrima, in March last, in which a new trial was moved for, the motion being supported by Mr. Holroyd, and the verdict by the Solicitor-General and Mr. Foster.

The Court was occupied up to the time of its closing in hearing the arguments of counsel upon this case.

BUSINESS FOR TO-DAY.—Motions generally, and the following new trial motions, viz:—Hillas v. Hunt, (part heard), Morris v. Campbell, Parsonage v. Dally, Smart v. Russell, Smart v. Tooth, Donnell v Hughes.

PUBLIC BUILDINGS.—There is no department in which the dilatory and procrastinating effect of Government influence is so apparent in the city of Sydney as in that of the Colonial Architect. Private enterprise undertakes works of great magnitude in every street and suburb of the city; and buildings, from the heavy and substantial store, to the palace-like tavern,—from the elegant villa to the imposing mansion, rise with magic rapidity beneath the wand of individual speculation to beautify and adorn "the city of the south." Private enterprise too has to cut and contrive the means of carrying on her undertakings, and is often driven to her wit's ends to go through with the schemes she has undertaken, for private comfort and emolument, or public convenience. But if the citizens at large contribute to the erection of institutions of general and commanding usefulness—then the Government, in its paternal care of our interests, steps in with its superintendence, and a "sealed doom" of delay attaches to such works. Even the City Council, with its notable Improvement Committee, when they do resolve on a job, the levelling of a street, the curbing of a gutter, or the filling up of a puddle, do manage to complete it in some sort of a manner; but the office of the Colonial Architect recognises no such inconvenient restraint of time. That absurd disfigurement of the principal street of the city, the Post Office, is one instance of this. On either side of it, private individuals have begun and long ago completed works of comparatively greater magnitude, whilst huge scaffolding poles, ropes, and pulleys, give effect to the picturesque of the incompleteness of the Post Office folly. By slow degrees, inch by inch as it were, the cumbrous columns rose in their giant circumference, and the difficulty of procuring blocks of sufficient magnitude was alleged as the excuse; but the smug looking little wooden pigeon box, which these majestic columns were designed to support, appears about as difficult a matter, and we are really apt to suspect that the procrastination is occasioned by very fear of the mockery which the grotesque tout ensemble must create. The projected Museum is another instance of the efficiency of the department. The foundations were laid, and the walls raised their diminished heads a few feet from the ground, and then their stunted growth appears to have stopped altogether. When the Council voted the money for this institution, it certainly did so on the ground that it was urgently required, not only for the encouragement of science in the collection of specimens; but because there was no place for the reception of the numerous specimens already collected. The room at the Court House, at Darlinghurst, apart from the inconvenience of its locality, does not afford accommodation for half the specimens which have been presented to the Museum. An insight into this room the other day assured us that what might be a most attractive and interesting exhibition, and one that would certainly tend to the rapid increase in the presentations to the Museum, as well as the taste for scientific pursuits and recreations in the colony, is rendered almost valueless from the want of proper space for the display and arrangement of the specimens. There are large cases of specimens not made up from want of room to exhibit them; and the Curator has no other accommodation for the performance of his duties than in the exhibition room. Some months ago it was understood that the Colonial Architect would, within a given time, long since passed, provide a room where Mr. Wall, the able and indefatigable curator, might pursue his labours undisturbed; but the promises of this department are written in sand, rather than recorded in monumental edifices and mural tablets. The Committee of the Museum should really make some representations on the subject of this delay.

COURT OF REQUESTS.—This Court will commence its sittings this morning, at ten o'clock, with a list of 300 cases.

THE GOVERNMENT GARDENS.—Those of the citizens who have not recently visited this delightful retreat, and are fond of viewing the Garden in its gayest and most beautiful dress would be well repaid by a walk through the Government Gardens. A very considerable degree of taste has of late been exhibited by those in the management of the Gardens, in the clearing of them of a quantity of old and somewhat unsightly trees which intercepted the views, and destroyed the symmetry of the arrangement of the Gardens. The disposition of the walks too has been much improved, several new ones, enclosing beds of flowers, having been laid out with much discretion. The trees and shrubs of the Gardens, relieved from the contact of those which of late encumbered the ground, display a mass of foliage, which few other climates in the world can equal in richness and variety. A greater abundance of good flowers than we remember to have seen at any previous period, shed beauty and perfume on the scene. The season has been particularly propitious in this respect, and the white and red roses, carnations, pinks, lilies, larkspurs, sweet Williams, and a long catalogue of established favourites, have blown with a purity and richness we have never seen excelled. The brilliant oleander and the delicate hydrangea, are also at present bursting into bloom, and are well worthy of the inspection of the curious in floriculture. It is intended shortly to erect a tablet commemorative of the death of the late Mr. Gilbert, the companion of Dr. Leichhardt, in his late expedition, in a picturesque part of the Lower Gardens, near the beautiful walk formed on the esplanade at the water's edge. The greatest credit is due to Mr. Kidd, and those under him, for the great improvements effected in the gardens during the last season—improvements which strike the observer with pleasant surprise, and contribute largely to the innocent gratification of numbers of our citizens.

POLICE BUSINESS.—SATURDAY.—This Court opened before the Mayor and Mr. Donaldson, at nine o'clock. There were six prisoners for drunkenness, two of whom were discharged, one paid a fine of eleven shillings, and three were sent to the cells. Two abandoned women were committed to gaol for two months under the Vagrant Act; Joseph Lefever, a runaway from H.M.S. Carysfort, was remanded for fourteen days; Thomas Clay, for embezzling a £5 note, the property of one Daniel Deering Mathews, Lane Cove, who had given it to him to purchase some articles, discharged; John Mackie, for assaulting John Cuspin, fined twenty shillings, and four shillings and sixpence costs, or in default to go to gaol for fourteen days; Anne O'Brien, for a breach of the peace, discharged; Daniel Jones, for stealing green oats from the paddock of a man named Lockie, at Chippendale, discharged; Herrah, an Indian Coolie, in the employ of Mr. Towns, for assaulting another Coolie named Ajudah, fined five shillings and four shillings and sixpence costs, or to go to gaol for three days; James Clark, for obstructing a constable in the execution of his duty, fined twenty shillings and costs; Margaret Dean, alias Faris, for stealing a saucepan, discharged. On the summons list there were three cases, one an offence against the Dog Act, fined ten shillings, and five shillings costs; one against the Police Act, fined five shillings, and five shillings costs; and William Burns, for deserting his wife Mary Burns, dismissed, the parties not appearing.

FATAL ACCIDENT.—A young lady residing in the district of Port Phillip, whilst staying at the house of Mr. Donald Macarthur, of Collingwood, cut her left hand with a bread knife between the thumb and fore finger, and a few days afterwards died very suddenly, from tetatus, resulting from the accident.

CAUTION TO BIRD-NESTERS.—On Monday last, a boy named Alger, aged about thirteen years, was bird-nesting with one of his companions on the banks of the South Creek, when Alger, having climbed up a tree, overhanging the water, the limb on which he was standing gave way, and precipitated him into the water, when he immediately sank; he was taken out soon after, but not before life was extinct. From the circumstance of two of the teeth being knocked out when the body was recovered, it is supposed that he must have been stunned by coming in contact with some obstacle when falling with the broken branch.

CAUTION TO DRAYMEN.—There is a practice very prevalent in the city, notwithstanding the repeated fines inflicted for it at the Police Office, of draymen allowing their horses to stand alone in the street, whilst they stand to have a gossip or a "ball" with some passing acquaintance. On Saturday last, a case of this sort occurred in Erskine-street, when a large dog began to jump at the horse's head, and started him off at a furious pace, up Erskine-street, round the corner into Clarence-street—where he upset an orange-barrow—along Clarence-street, to the imminent risk of numerous foot passengers, into King-street, where his course was ultimately stopped by the wheel of the dray being taken off by coming in contact with a post. Similar cases are of daily occurrence, and cannot escape the notice of the police, who ought in all cases to lay informations against the parties.

AUCTION SALES BY MR S. LYONS.—We are requested to remind the public that Mr. Samuel Lyons sells, this day, at his Mart, at eleven o'clock, in the insolvent estate of Michael Gannon, a valuable windmill at Woolloomooloo; after which, rice, tea, vinegar, ale, copper cooler, very superior arrowroot, lard, fat, and a great variety of other merchandise.—Communicated.

IMPORTANT SALE AT PARRAMATTA.—THIS DAY.—We are requested by Mr. Stubbs to solicit the attention of the public to his sale of the whole of the surplus elegant furniture, pianoforte, carriage and horses, and other effects, at the residence of Colonel Anderson, C B and K.H., Newlands, Parramatta, this day, at 12 o'clock.—Communicated.

WINDSOR.

HAWKESBURY REGATTA.—A meeting of the Regatta Committee for 1846 was held at Coffey's Hotel on Tuesday evening last. The Secretary read a letter from Mr. A. G. Panton, stating, that owing to the multiplicity of his business he would be unable to discharge the duties of treasurer, and therefore tendering his resignation. The resignation was accepted, and Mr. Charles Marsden appointed treasurer for the time coming, with instructions to obtain the balance now in Mr. Panton's hands. The Secretary then read the report of the subcommittee, appointed on the 20th ultimo to collect subscriptions. They said, that having canvassed the town of Windsor they had obtained a considerable sum in aid of the funds of the regatta. The total amount collected up to that time was £37 odd, of which more than £14 had been paid. They were of opinion that more subscriptions might be got in the town, and in order to obtain them they proposed devoting a day or two to the purpose. The ladies' purse fund was proceeding encouragingly, which was owing no doubt to the laudable exertions of two or three young ladies in Windsor, who had interested themselves in the matter. The sub-committee drew attention to the fact of neither the people of Richmond, Pitt Town, nor Wilberforce, having yet been called upon to subscribe. The report concluded by recommending that the sum of £40 at least might be safely expended in prizes, and expressed the belief of the subcommittee, that the total amount anticipated to be collected would not be more than £50. The prizes were next fixed, and the rules made, for which see advertisement. The prizes were all agreed to unanimously, with the exception of the first. The Secretary proposed that the first prize be for £10 10s, for gigs and whaleboats, pulled by four oars, and not less than fifteen feet long in the keel, which was seconded. It was proposed, as an amendment, and seconded, that the first prize be open for all boats not exceeding thirty feet in the keel. A member opposed the amendment at some length, stating it would bring discredit as well as disorder on the regatta; it would, he said, render the regatta an unmeaning exhibition, and annul all the beauty and utility of the sport. He also thought it would bring contempt on the regatta, making it fitting only a class of little children, and not at all becoming the spirit of men. They must give eclat to the sport, and render it worthy of the district and its beautiful river. In his opinion the proprietors of gigs would not condescend to put their boats upon a parallel with two oared boats or dingies, which the amendment would qualify for entrance, by competing with them in any race. He considered that the amendment was ridiculous, and without a precedent, and he submitted it was not for Windsor to establish a rule which Sydney and other places of importance rejected. He concluded, by trusting that the meeting would give a decided rejection to the amendment, and a happy adoption of the original motion, which he begged to support. A division was called for, when the original motion was carried by a majority of one, and the amendment lost. After some other business of minor importance had been gone through, the Committee adjourned till the first Tuesday in December.

SPECIAL LICENSE.—On Tuesday last the Bench of Magistrates granted a special license for the Windsor Hotel, some time unoccupied, to Mr. David Cross, brother of the late landlord, Mr. W. Cross, deceased.

ENGLISH EXTRACTS.

INVESTMENT OF SAVINGS IN COLONIZATION.

To the Editor of the Atlas.

SIR,—In an article which appeared in your paper of the 17th of this month colonization is ably enforced as a means of bettering the condition of the agricultural portion of the unemployed or ill-remunerated population of the country. "A really national plan of emigration would do much for the agricultural labourer." All that is wanting, Sir, I conceive to be capital at the command of the colonies. Labour would necessarily be attracted to the place where capital is abundant, in our colonies—"Where flowers are found there bees abound." Now, we have nearly thirty-six millions in the savings banks, for which a safe and profitable investment is much needed, and the want whereof is, perhaps, indicated in the employment of the savings of the working classes in building societies, &c. If there existed any means of employing this enormous sum, almost uselessly hoarded in the savings banks, in improving our colonies, so as to return 5 per cent, to lenders, secured on land, emigration would, it appears to me, soon become national. The improvement of the waste lands of our colonies ought to be made (as it were) the savings bank of the country. Capital would flow rapidly and abundantly in the only channels to which it ought to be directed, and all classes would be benefited by its use in the way pointed out. This, Sir, is a branch of social economy to which public attention should be called; and it is not less an object of importance to the political economist and the statesman. Suffer me, then, Sir, to urge it on your notice, and entreat your assistance in bringing the suggestion before the public. Your paper is extensively read by those who would give effect to any project for bettering the condition of the poorest of the poor. The article to which I allude was copied into the Times and a London weekly periodical circulated among the industrious classes. There is, then, every probability that attention will be given to the suggestion if it come before the public with the sanction of authority like that of your paper. I have mentioned to several individuals the subject I obtrude on your notice, and have found nothing like diversity of opinion on the necessity and importance, at the present moment, of such way of benefitting the distressed agricultural labourer. Employed in the way pointed out, the capital of the working classes would furnish not only dwellings fit for human habitation, but well-remunerated and unfailing employment for thousands for whom charity is now asked.

I have the honour to be, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
A WORKING MAN.

DESTRUCTION BY FIRE OF ST. JOHN'S, NEWFOUNDLAND.

(From the London Shipping Gazette.)

WE have received from our Teignmouth correspondent, under date of yesterday, June 29, 1846, the following important information:—

"The Pearl, of this port, has this moment just arrived in fifteen days from St. John's, Newfoundland, bringing the melancholy intelligence that two-thirds of the town is totally destroyed by fire, and that not one-twentieth of the property could be saved, the fire extending from Newman's, at the head of the harbour, to the fishing rooms at Mergatterry Cove, which was burning for seven hours. A famine was expected; no provisions to be purchased. All business suspended. Thousands of people know not where to lay their heads. The hills were on fire on every side. The public buildings burnt are, the old church, convent, court-house, gaol, assembly-house, and custom-house. The scene described by the passengers just landed, driven away from the country, is quite heart-rending. Vessels, boats, oil, molasses, and provisions, are all in one flame. I must close, to be in time for post. The schooner Roselle was despatched with the intelligence, to make the first port in England. Property destroyed calculated at two millions."

ROLLS' COURT.—WEDNESDAY, JUNE 10.

RYVES v. THE DUKE OF WELLINGTON.—The cause was resumed; and Mr. Kindersley, for the plaintiff, addressed the Court at length against the demurrer; and Mr. Turner, in support of it, for the defendant, replied. The bill stated, that by the act 39 and 40 George III., chapter 88, it was declared that all such personal estate of the King, as should consist of moneys for the use of his privy purse should be deemed to be personal estate of the King, subject to disposition by will in writing, under his sign manual, and liable to the payment of all debts properly payable out of his privy purse; that King George III. made his will under his sign manual, dated June 2, 1774, attested by three witnesses, and thereby gave a legacy £15,000 to his neice Olive, daughter of his late brother, Henry Frederick, Duke of Cumberland; that King George III. died in January, 1820, without having revoked the will, leaving his niece Olive surviving; that King George IV. became entitled to the personal estate of King George III., subject to the payment of the £15,000 legacy, but never paid it, and that it still remained unpaid; that in Trinity Term, 1822, Olive, Princess of Cumberland, brought a suit in the Prerogative Court of Canterbury, in which application was made for a citation upon the Procurator General of King George IV., to see the will of 2nd June, 1774, propounded, supported by an affidavit of the Princess Olive, stating that in 1815 the Earl of Warwick told her that she was the legitimate daughter of the late Duke of Cumberland, that the proofs were deposited with him by the late Earl of Chatham and the late Dr. Wilmot, and were at Warwick Castle; and that the papers, including the will of King George III., were shortly afterwards delivered into her hands. The bill went on to state that the application to the Prerogative Court was rejected upon the ground that there was no instance of probate granted of the will of any king of this realm, nor any instance of a citation to see such will propounded; and that probate of the will of King George III. had never been granted The bill then stated the death of King George IV., in June, 1830, having by his will, under his sign manual, appointed the Duke of Wellington and Sir William Knighton (since dead) executors—that probate of it was not granted,—and that the Duke had become sole executor of King George IV., who died possessed of personal estate to a very large amount. The bill then stated the death of the Princess Olive in 1834, and the proof of her will by her executrix, her daughter, the plaintiff, Mrs. Ryves, and her executor, John Primrose, who was made a defendant. The bill charged that the Princess Olive was the daughter of Henry Frederick, Duke of Cumberland (brother of King George III.), by his wife Olive, formerly Olive Wilmot, spinster, daughter of the Rev. James Wilmot, now deceased; that the Duke was privately married to his wife Olive on the 4th of March, 1769, at the house of Lord Archer, in Grosvenor square, by the Rev. Dr. James Wilmot, and that the Princess Olive, the daughter, was born on the 3rd of April, 1772, at Warwick, and privately baptised in the parish of St. Mary, Warwick, by the Rev. Dr. James Wilmot. The bill prayed for an account to the plaintiff, and to the defendant Primrose, as executor and executrix of the late Olive Princess of Cumberland, for principal and interest on the legacy of £15,000. To this bill the Duke of Wellington demurred, upon the grounds that the plaintiff had not made a case entitling her to discovery and relief, and that the matters were not cognizable by the court The cause was argued at great length. Mr. Turner and Mr. Elmsley insisted, for the Duke of Wellington, upon the Statute of Limitations, 3 and 4 William IV., chap. 27, sec. 40 and 43, that the suit should have been brought within twenty years after the right to receive the legacy accrued, and also upon the want of jurisdiction in the court to determine the question. Mr. Kindersley, Dr. Addams, Dr. Bayford, Mr. Cockburn, Mr. Lovatt, and Mr. Dowdeswell were for the plaintiff, and argued contra. Lord Langdale said, at the conclusion of Mr. Turner's reply, he would take time to consider.—Judgment deferred.

AMERICAN COMFORTS IN HOT WEATHER.—I was terrifically hot on the afternoon of my arrival in Cincinnati, the thermometer being something like 100 degrees in the shade. I know not what the people would do in this broiling climate if it were not for the profuse supply of ice and iced water. Then what superb drinks you get! I have been through a course of cobler, brandy, port, claret, and sherry, and revelled in a mint julep, and other rare drinks, far superior to anything I ever imbibed elsewhere. But, by my halidame, a sherry cobler is a nectar fit for the gods; and the most eloquent descriptions will prove inadequate to convey a just idea of a compound so truly delicious. Some pounded sugar, about two tablespoonsful, is put into a large tumbler, a liberal supply of ice, pure as crystal, two wine glasses of fine sherry, lemon peel cut very thin, a large slice of pine-apple at the top, and the whole violently shook up, or poured several times from one tumbler to another, and allowed a minute or so to clear; a long reed is then stuck in the glass, and so you imbibe it; the charge for this is sixpence. But here I must pause, for the bare remembrance makes me thirsty.—Tait's Magazine.

THE CORN IMPORTATION BILL.—This Bill passed the House of Lords on Thursday, received the Royal assent on Friday by commission, and is now the law of the land. That this measure would be carried by the Peel Cabinet, before its breaking up, has for some time been regarded as certain, and the effects have, therefore, in a great measure, been anticipated; still we are inclined to think that the liberation of so large a quantity of wheat as that now in bond in the kingdom must at least for a time have some effect on prices. Whether the reduction will be very great, will, in some measure, depend on the degree of firmness holders—merchants as well as farmers—may display. That the millers are totally out of stocks is a perfectly-well-known fact: their necessities have lately been so pressing, that even the certainty of the new corn bill coming into immediate operation, combined with very favourable weather, has been inadequate to check an upward tendency in prices; if, therefore, no particular eagerness should be shown to press sales, it is very probable that comparatively little effect may be produced on the value of wheat by the new order of things. How quotations may ultimately range, must, of course, depend on the result of the harvest at home and abroad. Up to the present time, the promise for the wheat crop is decidedly good, as far as the British Islands are concerned.—Mark Lane Express.

BE QUIET.—There is another inquiry which should be always made before you determine on the adoption of a particular method of treatment—What will happen in this case if no remedies whatever be employed? If the patient be left altogether to nature, or to the efforts of his own constitution? There are many diseases which, for the most part, undergo a spontaneous cure; and we should be always very cautious how, in such cases, we disturb the natural process. A prudent physician watches a case of measles or smallpox, but it is only on some special occasions that he ventures to have recourse to any active remedies. The surgeon ought to be influenced by similar views in the management of the cases which come under his care; those, especially, in which the patient suffers from the effects of mechanical injury. The animal system is not like a clock or a steam-engine, which, being broken, you must send to a clock maker or engineer to mend it, and which cannot be repaired otherwise. The living machine, unlike the works of human invention has the power of repairing itself; it contains within itself its own engineer, who, for the most part, requires no more than some very slight assistance at our hands. We bring the edges of a wound into contact, but the vascular union, which constitutes the healing by the first intention, is the work of a higher art than any that we profess to practise. If this mode of union fails, and the wound is to be healed by granulations, still this is not accomplished by our means. So where there is a simple fracture, all that we can do is to place the two ends of the bones in a proper position, and keep them in it. The process by which they are made to unite, so as to be again consolidated into one bone, is not under our dominion and control. These are, it is true, examples of slighter and simpler injury, but even in those in which the injury is more severe and complicated it is easy for us to interfere to the patient's disadvantage; and in fact it may be truly said, that there is, on the whole, more harm done by too much than there is by too little interference.—Brodie's Lectures.

THE LATE MRS. FRY.—During the last few weeks several meetings have taken place at the Mansion-house, over which the Lord Mayor presided, connected with the memory of the late Mrs. Fry. By a resolution proposed by Lord Morpeth and seconded by Thomas Farmer, Esq., it was agreed that a subscription should be set on foot for the purpose of establishing an institution which, while it transmitted to posterity the name and character of Mrs. Elizabeth Fry, so long and so usefully engaged in the important work of reforming the discipline of prisons, would assist in carrying into execution one of the cherished designs of her life—the establishment of a temporary refuge in which female prisoners, anxious to reform their lives, might, upon their discharge, obtain food and shelter for a few days or weeks, until, under the discreet advice and assistance of a committee of ladies who, during Mrs. Fry's life, had been her associates, these unfortunate persons might be placed in asylums or penitentiaries, or be passed to their parishes, or, in the cases of young and petty transgressors, might be restored to their parents or friends, when after due probation they gave evidence of repentance and amendment of life.—The Hon W. Cowper, M.P., moved, and Lord Henry Cholmondeley seconded, a resolution appointing a committee of noblemen and gentlemen, to carry the design into execution. The committee on Thursday last was numerously attended, when several chaplains of the metropolitan prisons, and also several members of the Society of Friends present at their annual meeting, delivered their sentiments of approbation of the measure, and some large subscriptions were announced. His Excellency the Chevalier Bunsen informed the meeting that he had received the commands of his Majesty the King of Prussia testifying his regard for the memory of the deceased, and his approbation of the objects of the institution by becoming a contributor, and Hon Mr. W. Cowper signified her Majesty's most gracious pleasure to become its patroness, and a subscriber of 50 guineas in aid of its funds. Prince Albert had likewise condescended to honour the establishment with his patronage and a donation of £25.

CHRISTOPHER NEWTON AND BROTHER have received by the "ANN BATES,"

FIFTY PACKAGES,

Of entirely new and choicely selected

DRAPERY GOODS,

Comprising every variety calculated to please the taste, or to suit the views of the economist

They feel a degree of diffidence in making this announcement, in consequence of the rush of business preventing them offering to their friends a list of the

NEW IMPORTATIONS,

At the same time they flatter themselves that their New Goods cannot fail (in addition to previous stock) to meet the decided approval of even the most particular to please.

C. N. and Brother in again referring to the

SELLING OFF

Wish to observe that the fresh supplies latterly received add new and very tempting attractions, and while bearing this in mind they would strenuously advise their kind supporters to lose no time in making use of the advantages thus offered to them; as it will, in all probability, be a considerable time ere a similar opportunity occur.

THE TAILORING DEPARTMENT

Continues to receive the same unremitting attention that has heretofore given such universal satisfaction, and it is ofttimes a matter of proud gratification to the proprietors of the

BEE-HIVE,

To think that their exertions have met with such liberal support.

alike attractive to the opulent and economical purchasers of Foreign and British manufacture.

D. and T. feel convinced that the principle on which their business is conducted requires only to be known to be duly appreciated.

The greatest care is bestowed in the selection of such qualities only as are calculated to wear well, and give entire satisfaction to the purchaser.

The system of "ticketing," now so universally adopted by houses of the highest respectability in London, is practised only to a certain extent, for the information of the public.

In conclusion, the proprietors beg to state that all business is conducted on strictly honorable principles.

No deviation from the prices made, and no credit given.

SELTERS WATER.

THE undersigned begs to call the attention of their friends and the public to the above, as a natural soda water, infinitely superior in salubrity and capability of relieving thirst to the artificial soda water, so largely consumed in this semi-tropical climate. The carbonate acid gas to which both owe their exhilirating effect, is contained in great abundance in the selters water, but in such an intimate state of combination, that instead of distending the stomach by its sudden escape from the water in which it is dissolved, gently and gratefully stimulates it in its slow and gradual evolution, thereby promoting digestion, while the great objection to the factitious soda water, is the great injury which it is known to inflict upon the stomach and digestive organs.

HOUSES AND PREMISES IN WINDSOR.

TO THE INHABITANTS, FARMERS, SHOPKEEPERS, TRADERS, AND OTHERS, RESIDING IN AND ABOUT THE IMPROVING TOWN OF WINDSOR.

MR. STUBBS is honoured with instructions from the Agent of His Grace the Archbishop of Sydney,
TO SELL BY PUBLIC AUCTION,
At the Mart, King-street,
ON WEDNESDAY, THE 2ND DAY OF DECEMBER, 1846.
At 12 o'clock precisely,
The undermentioned Houses and Premises in the town of Windsor, viz.:—

No. 1.—House and premises situate in Mileham-street, Windsor, and lately occupied by the Rev. Mr. Adams, Presbyterian Minister, containing five rooms, with under-ground cellar, two kitchens attached, with a coach-house and two-stalled stable. There is a lawn in front, and a small garden of about twenty-five rods at the back. There is about an acre of land belonging to the same. The house has a very fine drawing room with French doors showing into the lawn in front; and also a large dining-room. These premises are in a good state of repair; when the Rev. Mr. Adams lived in it he paid £60 per annum.

No. 2.—Four houses, two story high, situated in Mileham-street, Windsor, each containing two rooms, with skillings at the back to each, as a kitchen; they have a small yard at the back, which answers for all these four houses.

No. 3.—A small cottage, containing four rooms, with a small yard.

No. 4.—A neat cottage, (at present in the occupation of the Rev. Mr. M'Grath), containing five rooms, with kitchen, stable, and yard adjoining; there is a small garden in front, and a paddock of about half an acre of ground, belonging to the cottage, well fenced in. This property is in good repair.

☞ This unique and highly valuable property is most particularly deserving the attention of the small capitalist, who entertains the pleasant idea of taking up his abode in one of the prettiest towns in this healthy and pleasant country, with a sufficient income arising from a sure and remunerating source to afford him ample means of enjoying every personal comfort, and the opportunity of forming an extensive social acquaintance with the most respectable and wealthiest of our co-colonists.
